

New Jersey City University
Policy on Privacy of Personally Identifiable Information Collected and Contained in Financial Records Maintained by the University on behalf of its Customers/Students

Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act of 1999 (GLB)

and print, as well as the student guide. The University is also, as a regular practice, including a statement of obligations in its agreements with third parties that may have access to financial records covered by the safeguards contained in the GLBA.

For more information about the GLBA and its impact on higher education institutions, please refer to the following URLs:

For general guidance on the GLBA Safeguards Rule, see Financial Institutions and Customer Data: Complying with the Safeguards Rule (September 2002), available at <http://www.ftc.gov/bcp/online/pubs/buspubs/safeguards.htm>

For information concerning obligations for educational institutions under the GLBA, see the National Association of College and University Business Officers (NACUBO) January 31, 2003 Advisory Report, entitled Colleges and Universities Subject to New FTC Rules Safeguarding Customer Information, available at http://www.nacubo.org/public_policy/advisory_reports/2003/2003-01.pdf